DACONO POLICE DEPARTMENT RECRUITMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

The Dacono Police Department is aggressively seeking highly qualified and motivated individuals for the position of Police Officer in a continuous open recruitment process. The Department provides high-visibility police services with a strong emphasis on proactive enforcement to a community on the northern edge of the Denver metropolitan area. The City of Dacono is in transition from a rural environment with a population of about 4,500 to a suburban environment, with a build-out population growth projection of about 55,000.

The Dacono Police Department reflects a strong and proud professional image. Specialized training and in-service training are encouraged for every member of the Department. Our officers are enthusiastic and looking forward to facing the challenges of continuing to provide professional police service to a rapidly growing community.

Minimum qualifications for Police Officer and Reserve Police Officer include 21 years of age with no maximum age; high school diploma or GED with 60 semester/90 quarter hours of higher education at an accredited college or university in any discipline highly desirable; valid Colorado driver's license with no restrictions at time of appointment; current Colorado POST basic certification or eligibility to obtain Colorado POST basic certification within the statutory time limitation if certified in another state; and an ability to successfully complete a structured intensive hiring process. The selection process may include, but is not limited to, written and physical ability examinations; an oral interview board; completion of a detailed Personal History Questionnaire and background investigation; a polygraph or certified voice stress analysis (CVSA) examination; a psychological and medical examination; and a Chief of Police review and recommendation for hiring.

The 2008 salary range for Police Officers is from $39,000/year to $47,200/year, based upon education and relevant prior police experience, with a generous benefit package.
